

Speakers

Foundation for Polish Science

Prof. Maciej Żylicz, molecular biologist, since 2005 president of the Foundation for Polish Science, expert in science policy. He specializes in the molecular biology of heat shock proteins. The author of almost 90 scientific works cited in global literature (over 6000 citations), recipient of many prestigious scientific awards, member of several renowned scientific institutions in Poland and abroad (among all member of Max Planck Senat).

Tomasz Poprawka, PhD, biologist, since 2012 deputy director of the programme division at the Foundation for Polish Science. He coordinates the work of two teams implementing projects funded within the Smart Growth Operational Programme.

Dr Maria Pawłowska is a graduate of Bristol (joint honors B.Sc. in Biology and Geology) and Cambridge Universities (PhD in Earth Sciences) with experience in public and science policy in both the governmental and non-governmental sector. At the Foundation for Polish Science she is the program officer for the new flagship International Research Agendas Programme (IRAP).

National Science Centre

Anna Plater-Zyberk, linguist and cultural anthropologist, deputy head of International Relations Office of the National Science Centre (NCN).

Since the establishment of the NCN in 2011 Anna has been responsible for providing recommendations on international programmes, as well as for coordination of the bilateral (Germany, USA, Lithuania) and multilateral cooperation (Era-nets and JPI's) of the Centre.

National Centre for Research and Development

Daniel Maksym, Head of the Section for Management of Programmes for Entrepreneurs. Since September 2011 Daniel Maksym has been working at the National Centre for Research and Development (NCBR) in various managerial capacities. He's main responsibility covers programs encouraging transfer of knowledge from academia to economy. He holds a degree in Law from the Maria Curie-Sklodowska University in Lublin. He is also a graduate of the Prime Minister's National School of Public Administration in Warsaw.